2018 Rose Hill Farms Summer Biodynamic Meeting

About the farms

Established in 2001, the farms are located in Roseburg, Oregon in the beautiful Umpqua valley.

In the last couple of years the original 107 acres farm as grown into a family of 4 adjacent locations for a total of 600 acres. We have about 300 fruit and nut trees, a large garden, Jersey and highland cattle, horses, sheeps, goats and Tamworth pigs along with chicken, ducks and geeses.

We practice sustainable forestry and have a sawmill and a woodworking operation.

About the workshop

We try to present an in depth and modern look at the ideas and practices at the base of Biodynamic work. The workshops are free but we often limit the number of participants so we can make sure everybody have a personnalized learning experience and get an answer to their questions. For the 2018 Summer meeting we have a limit of 15 places available. This year the meeting is on Friday July 27th.

You may want to stay on the farm for the weekend as well as we host the Unicorn Project Conference on Saturday and Sunday.

We have campsites available but you need to reserve early to make sure you have a spot. The campsites are free but we request a refundable deposit of 25$ per night as we dont want people to reserve a spot and then not showing at the event while we are refusing campsites to other peoples.
